“If only I had more time.” “Where has the day gone?” “I have completely lost track of time.” “There is just not enough time in the day.” I’m sure we have said and or heard every axiom regarding not having enough or running out of time.

We hold several things in common when it comes to time. One, we all have the same amount of time each day. Unless you live in some weird time warp outside the space and time continuum, 24 hours have been allotted to you each day. Second, we are all given a choice on how we use those 24 hours. Family, work, study, leisure, rest, spiritual, and a whole host of other important necessities constantly volley for our attention.

The third aspect of time we hold in common is that if we are not careful, we can find ourselves so consumed with all the trappings of life that we become too busy for what we were, at least partly, created and put on this earth to do. “Let nothing be done through selfish ambition or conceit, but in lowliness of mind let each esteem others better than himself. Let each of you look out not only for his own interests, but also for the interests of others. Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus...” (Philippians 2:3-5).

No one has ever been more conscientious about how he spent his time than Jesus. He knew how precious time was and that His was limited (John 17). He did not spend His time on earth focused on Himself. Jesus’ time was centered on others: His disciples, strangers, religious leaders, children, the lost, the forgotten, and the outcast. He was never too busy to convey love, concern, compassion, authority, and glory to God as He interacted with others. He was never too busy to meet the needs of those who were lonely or suffering (Luke 8:45).

As we spend the rest of our limited time on earth, I pray that we will have a mind in us that was also in Christ Jesus. I pray that we are never too busy to reach out to others who are hurting. I pray that we are never too busy to show love and compassion to the lost, forgotten, and outcast. I pray that we are never too busy to notice those closest to us struggling with temptation or doubt. I pray that we are never too busy to visit the sick and lonely or encourage the heavy-hearted. I pray we are never too busy to show others Who it is we live for and Who is living in us. I pray we are never too busy to live like Jesus.
